In this week's recap: exceptional jobs data, a rally on Wall Street, high marks for consumer confidence and spending, and a dip for a key factory indicator.

Weekly Economic Update

November 5, 2018

HIRING SURGED LAST MONTH

The Department of Labor's latest employment report painted a picture of a thriving economy. Payrolls expanded with 250,000 net new hires in October, with wages improving 3.1% year-over-year (that was the best 12-month wage increase in nine years). Unemployment remained remarkably low at 3.7%; underemployment, as measured by the U-6 rate, ticked down 0.1% to 7.4%. October marked the labor market's 97th straight month of expansion; the main jobless rate has been under 5% for two years. Last month, there were 7.1 million job openings and 6.1 million unemployed Americans.^{1,2}

HOUSEHOLD SPENDING, CONFIDENCE REMAIN STRONG

The Department of Commerce reported an advance of 0.4% for personal spending in September, though personal incomes improved by only half that. The Conference Board's consumer confidence index displayed an excellent 137.9 reading for October.^{2,3}

ISM'S FACTORY SECTOR PMI DECLINES

Slipping to 57.7 for October, the Institute for Supply Management's purchasing manager index of manufacturing activity remained far above the 50 mark that serves as the index's line between sector expansion and contraction. In September, this PMI reached 59.8.³

RED TURNS TO GREEN ON WALL STREET

Last week saw all three major U.S. equity benchmarks add value. A 2.36% weekly gain left the Dow Jones Industrial Average at 25,270.83 when Friday's trading day concluded. The Nasdaq Composite rose even more, improving 2.65% in five days to wrap up the week at 7,356.99. Not to be outdone, the S&P 500 advanced 2.42%. At Friday's closing bell, it stood at 2,723.06. Thanks to these performances, the big three turned positive again for the year.⁴
